

Summer Swingfest Tomorrow Eve

Souza's Swing Band To "Goodmanize" Staters In Gym Tonight - And How!

THEME IS ON SAILOR STUFF—ALSO THINGS

By WADE BRUMMAL

Anchors aweigh!
The good houseboat, W.A.A. GYM, remains docked and ready to float out to sea tomorrow night. And, if Admiral Marjorie Louise Meyer's weather bureau footsies don't go playing hallucinations on her again, all is in readiness for a flood of fun and festivity.

SAIL WITH "ARK OF GAIETY"

Heading State's fun excursion on the bounding main, the Summer Session jig are (left to right) Wade Brummal, Edith Dorey and Margaret Meyer. With the help of diminutive Dena Witte and Peggy Smith (center photo) they will attempt to turn Mrs. Stephenson's Physical Education Department into the good ship "Ark of Gaiety". Helen Newell, summer chairman, will head the hostess committee at the dance.

All these people have pooled their abilities in an effort to make tomorrow night's dance a financial and social success.

But even if the expected down-pour fails to materialize and the "Ark of Gaiety", as Admiral Meyer has rechristened "Ma" Stevenson's ill used P.E. tug, is forced to spend a dry evening tied up in San Francisco State College harbor, the fun and festivity will go on just as if nothing unexpected had happened.

GAMBLING RESTRICTED

Of course, gambling will be somewhat restricted if the Ark of Gaiety fails to recruit a tidal wave, hurricane, flood or some other decidedly wet ally to help push her over the bounding main and outside the three mile limit.

It is even rumored on this score, however, that Marjorie and her co-pilot, Rear Admiral Edith Elizabeth Dorey, are plotting to turn on all the showers in the gym and leave them running and thus save Marjorie's face in the event it shouldn't even drizzle Friday night.

MUSIC WALKS PLANK

At any rate, Benny Souza's Buccaneer Band will be aboard determined to make many a composer's masterpiece walk their musical plank into the briny deep. The Souza musicians are planning their first salvo of swing for 9 p.m. and in keeping with the heritage of the sea, promise to keep up their musical bombardment until the last lifeboat has been lowered, shortly after midnight.

The voyage will not be a completely dry one, however, as deck stewards will sell Coca-Cola and other disinfected beverages. The Ark of Gaiety will be rigged in a quite nautical manner and the

SAN FRANCISCO STATE COLLEGE GOLDEN GATER

1st Steps In Building Plan

Alumni Meeting Planned For September 16th

AND WITH PLENTY OF PLANS FOR NEW COLLEGE; HOMECOMING OCT. 14

Plans for the development of the San Francisco State Alumni Association will be discussed by the 200 members of the organization at the annual business meeting on Saturday, September 16, at Frederic Burk Auditorium. The session will open at 2 o'clock.

A definite policy for the future will be determined. Many suggestions have been made regarding the relation of the Alumni to the college and vice versa. The new buildings are certain to increase the prestige of the college as well as the graduates.

ALUMNI AT CROSSROADS

This meeting is important to the Alumni. The association is definitely at the crossroads. It can progress with the college or become extinct.

How to build up the interest among the graduates will be one of the most important topics of discussion at this meeting. Howard Demeke will be chairman, assisted by Bill Smith.

Another important item of business will be the election of officers for the next two years. The nomination committee has selected the following candidates: Ted Goldman for president, Dorothy Hart for vice president, Violet Wenk for executive secretary, Kay Butler for financial secretary and Sally Wilde for treasurer. If Goldman is elected, he will be the first man to lead the association.

MEMBERSHIP TRIPLED

The outgoing officers are Katherine Young, president; Malvina Cohn, vice president; Grace Lawrence, executive secretary; Jane Couchot, financial secretary, and Margaret Horn, treasurer. Under the leadership of this group, the organization has tripled its membership.

Among the successful activities sponsored by the Alumni last year was the publication of a quarterly magazine with Dean P. F. Valentine and Harold Martin as editors; the first annual Homecoming Day and dance, with George Moscone and Ted Goldman planning the affair; the organization of six regional chapters throughout the state, under the guidance of Dot Hart, and the thirty-eighth birthday party, with Kay Young as chairman, which featured Senator John Shelley as guest of honor.

PLAN HOMECOMING DAY

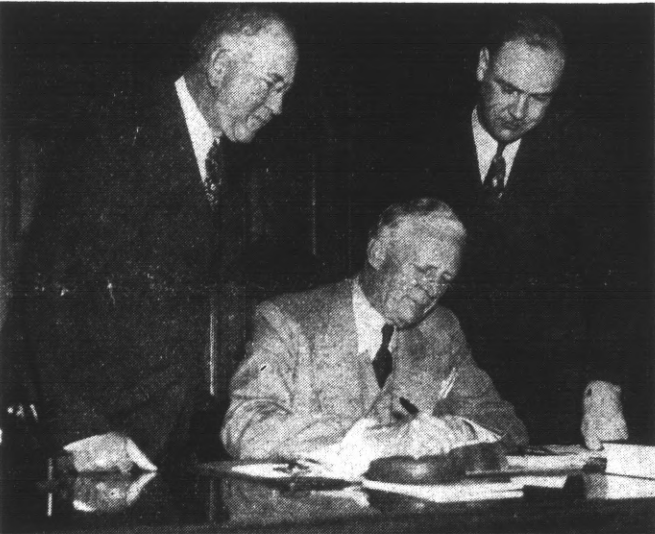

Homecoming Day this year will be on Saturday, October 14. A dance following the football game with Chico State has been planned. A perpetual trophy for this game has been proposed by the S. F. State Alumni, but no definite response has been sent by the Chico Alumni Association.

- 1: Employment For 1000 Men
- 2: WPA Contributes Two Million
- 3: Transportation To Be Arranged

Employment for over 1,000 men will be furnished in six weeks by San Francisco State College's building program at the new Lake Merced-Ingleside campus site.

The WPA will be in charge of the work and will contribute over two million dollars to State's four million dollar campus, most of which will be labor, with a certain percentage for construction materials.

BIRTH OF A NEW COLLEGE

Governor Culbert L. Olson turns dreams into reality as he signs the bills for the new State campus. College President Alexander C. Roberts and State Senator John F. Shelley who directed the fight for the new campus, look on with a gleam of triumph.

Because of the new WPA set-up in Washington, it was necessary to send in a second application. When this application is approved the preliminary work of grading, landscaping, drainage and excavating will begin immediately.

A temporary delay in the purchase of the land, 56½ acres, has been caused by the absence of Dr. Walter Dexter, state superintendent of instruction, who is on a vacation. The land is owned by the Spring Valley Company, Ltd.

Ideally located for a college campus, the new site is in the Ingleside district bordering Lake Merced and near a developing residential district. The transportation companies are arranging to make the campus within easy access of downtown San Francisco, and real estate men expect a development equal to that in Westwood Village near U.C.L.A. It has been reported that several State professors are seeking homes in the new district.

The two bills which make the new campus possible were proposed by Senator John F. Shelley, and was the only legislation passed by the recent legislature which vitally affect local interests.

Review of All-Star Cast In New Play "Outward Bound"

By ERNEST MIGUEL

Outward Bound, Sutton Vane's play of the hereafter, returned to San Francisco Monday night with a cast of Hollywood-ites, including Cora Witherspoon, Reginald Denny, and Richard Cromwell.

The surprising asset of the presentation was the complete lack of supernatural effects. The cast acted as any group of people would on an extended ocean voyage, and strong white light was used in place of the expected blue, hazy light.

Denny, of the "you silly ahss" parts, was given a chance to show real dramatic ability in the second act when he discovered that there was no captain or crew on the boat other than Scrubby, the bar steward. Mr. Denny's attempt at convincing the rest of the passengers that they were dead was an example of perfect workmanship.

The star of the show was that grand old trouper Cecilia Loftus. She was superb as the old cock-

State's Football Hopes Will Begin To Form On September Second

WHEN BOYLE TAKES OVER

By HAROLD MARTIN

September 2 will be an important date in San Francisco State's football history. On that day Coach Dick Boyle will issue suits to the 1939 candidates, and the first practice will be held during the afternoon.

Boyle expects to hold two workouts daily during the following week in order to get the Staters into condition for the opening game. The Gaters are tentatively scheduled to play Marin J.C. on September 16 at Kentfield, which will give them only two weeks to practice.

SPRING PRACTICE PROMISING

The Staters displayed unusual strength in spring practice. During the three-week session Coach Boyle introduced the Notre Dame system, and the players learned their assignments quickly. That practice is certain to produce good results.

Twenty veterans from last season's squad will return. The list will be headed by Chad Reade and Dave Schiller, outstanding fullbacks; Jim Lowrie, quarterback; Don McDonald, and Bob Norton, halfbacks; and Guido DeGhetaldi, Claude Hanrahan, Jim Gittens, George Thayer and Rip Collins, linesmen.

Schiller and Norton are working out daily at Roberts Stadium. They live in the field house and toss the football around in their spare time. Reade is working at a gas station and gets a chance to practice occasionally. They will all

"Brother" Brummal Pops Off! --- But He Has Good Ideas --- Attacks Foreign Propaganda

By WADE PATRICK BRUMMAL
Feature Editor, Golden Gater

(Editor's Note: The following article does not necessarily reflect the general views of the publishers of the Golden Gater. Copies of all material quoted may be seen in the Editorial Office, Annex A 9.)

Adolph Hitler, present Peck's Bad Boy of Europe, may or may not menace the peace of the Eastern Hemisphere, but America need fear only the tea-toting sages of Downing Street.

Just because a man drinks tea is no positive indication that he's a sissy. Yet, it certainly does appear as if the once feared British Lion is today quaking with terror lest it get its tail nipped by a stubborn German dashund. And extremely solicitous over the welfare of a bloodily won empire on which it is boasted "the sun never sets", English diplomats as well as London's friends in this country are leaving no stone unturned that might assist in linking Great Britain closer to the United States. In fact, some Yankee optimists even go so far as to express the likelihood that Great Britain might soon even pay back a portion of its war debts.

Meanwhile, until the day that the first shipment of gold reaches American soil, some of us adopted Missourians remain to be shown.

As an almost nightly listener during the last few weeks to news broadcasts in English from Tokyo, Japan (Station JZK); Berlin, Germany (Stations DJD, DJL, DJB) and London, England (Stations GSD, GSC, GSB), I had ample opportunity to wonder at the similarity of news reports issuing from London and the United States.

Perhaps Japan's reporting of incidents involving the British in China was a beautifully woven detail of lies, and Germany's story of the Danzig crisis conceived in fiction and there really aren't two sides to world events any longer.

London Flavored News

But, after recalling the British inspired propaganda that sent the flower of America's youth to wilt in a French no-man's land little more than two decades ago, and noting the proven inaccuracies appearing in American news articles concerning the recent Spanish Civil War, one becomes less overzealous in jumping to conclusions.

In 1898, the United States fought a massacre with ill-equipped Spain for Cuba's liberation and the Philippines subjugation. Propaganda that furnished Colonel Teddy Roosevelt with his famous "Rough Riders" and other volunteers was inflamed with the accusation that Spain blew up the Maine—a deed that to this day has never been proven the work of a Spanish nation that was trying by every means in its power to avoid a conflict that meant sure defeat.

Philippines Raped in '98

Yet, blazing from newspaper headlines throughout the nation, this accusation gave Wall Street capitalists the flimsy excuse needed to seize Cuban and Puerto Rican sugar investments and rape the Philippines of their newly won independence. (At the time of the Spanish-American war, Spanish garrisons in the Philippines had been driven into Manila and a few sea coast towns by Filipino revolutionaries under their daring leader, Aguinaldo. It took American troops two years to put down this revolt after Spain had surrendered. The fiercest and bloodiest campaigns of the war were waged not against the Spaniards, but against Aguinaldo's guerrillas, fighting to achieve a national independence.)

Democracy Saved in '17

In 1917, the United States entered the World War to make the "World Safe for Democracy" after the people had been stirred to the proper crusading pitch with stories of German brutality. Such delightful anecdotes as cutting off the hands and feet of children, raping and crucifying women, disemboweling expectant mothers, and a large scale massacre of prisoners and ruthless destruction of cathedrals and art in Belgium made front page headlines. Of course, the torpedoing of ships bearing American citizens, in some cases carrying camouflaged munitions for the hard pressed British forces, and in all instances pre-warned to remain out of the war zone, was the immediate cause of America's salvage of the tottering British Empire.

Today, a third generation, perhaps somewhat wiser than its propaganda incited grandparents and parents, stands on the brink of America's third deadly sacrifice of human life, its second salvage of the British Empire.

Addressed to the Editor of the Golden Gater and received in the morning mail last Monday was an especially illustrative example of the type of propaganda now flooding this nation. Dedicated to the "only power capable of teaching us, the people, what we should do—THE NEWSPAPER PRESS," it belched forth in bold, black type: "YOU! BY CASTING YOUR BALLOT (ON OTHER SIDE) CAN BRING PEACE!!!"

God Save King David!

We naturally, turned the sensational appearing sheet and rewarded our curiosity with the ocular consumption of the ballot appearing elsewhere on this page.

Next we let our gaze devour such startling statements addressed to the Editors of All Daily Papers (seemingly a bit of flattery as far as the Golden Gate is concerned) as the remarks of a certain Mr. Charles Davis delivered on June 23, 1939 at the New York World's Fair on the birthday of the Duke of Windsor before the "Friends of the Duke of Windsor in America":

"U.S.A. can keep out only if the British Empire is not, against its will, drawn into the catastrophe that is ahead of Europe and the world. Britain will leave no stone unturned to keep out but she cannot be sure of this save through the U.S.A."

"So what next in Europe is up to America for only America can surely keep the British Empire out and, by doing so, can likely prevent the coming passing of our civilization."

"How? By co-operating with King David and his American Queen (Editor's note—divorcee Wallis Simpson Windsor) towards bringing about a UNITED STATES OF THE WORLD as voiced by him on May 9, 1939 at Verdun, France . . ."

"It will not be too late if the U.S.A. says yes to the British Empire in their desire to come together under ONE FLAG under a UNITED WORLD PEACE EMPIRE MAGNA CARTA or constitution between the 56 Nations of the World as is that of the U.S.A. between 48 States."

"H.R.H. PRINCE OF WALES in 1929 said that he hoped for the day when—'If two nations want to fight there will be some power which will say MOVE ON!' as can ney scrubwoman trying to hide her true identity from her "gentleman" son, played by Reginald Denny.

Cora Witherspoon was her usual self. Her ability to put the right touch to the part of a society crazed woman made a rather dull character inspiring.

Young Phillip Winter made the most of his chances as the young parson in love with his work. The most enjoyable parts of the entire performance were provided by Winter when he decided to enjoy himself since he was dead.

First nighters at the Curran greeted the opening performance of Outward Bound with loud applause and several curtain calls, Cecilia Loftus receiving the greatest honors.

OUR UNITED EMPIRE (U.S.A. and B.E.) with about 1/3 World Land Area; 1/3 Population; 1/2 Wealth; 80% Resources; Having the most powerful ARMIES, NAVIES, AIR FLEETS to bring about and keep PEACE."

The small sheet is crammed with similar reasoning as well as excerpts from "THE KINGS MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY, EDWARD VIII," on his ascension to the throne on January 21, 1936 and his later abdication on December 11, 1936.

All of which paints a pretty picture as far as the future welfare of the British Empire and possibly the United States is concerned but augers for even greater imperial exploitation of the unfortunate 2/3 of the world's population that would be left stranded with a mere 20% of the good earth's resources. Instead of avoiding war, it would force Germany, Italy, Japan and other non self-sufficient nations to either fight for increased land area, low tariffs and added resources to support their expanding populations or give up their national existence and beg the crumbs from the table of the United Empire.

Whether or not America will be involved in war or will pursue a policy of complete neutrality and wartime isolation depends to what extent the British propagandists can assume control of the American press and radio. Already they have succeeded in influencing 50,000 New York school children between the ages of 6 and 16 to vote Hitler and Mussolini the title of the two most hated men in the world. They have caused the miniature city of Auburn, California to feature a jackass braying contest between two donkeys called Adolf and Benito and when this was protested by citizens of German descent, to claim it was an insult to the donkeys. They have inspired such articles as Emil Ludwig's biography of Hitler appearing in recent issues of the Sensational Look Magazine.

Roosevelt Called Insane

But how can we expect anything but exaggerations of conditions in foreign nations and slander of their leaders to grace our press when we allow our citizens to so violate the right of freedom of speech as to publish such bitterly personal attacks as the following concerning our own leader, President Roosevelt.

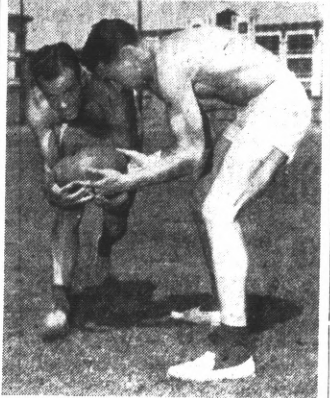

"In previous issues of Divine Life I have made the statement that Franklin Delano Roosevelt was insane, insane as a rat . . . But now I propose to make a prediction that the asylum will claim him before he finishes his present four years of incumbency where he will pass away the victim of infantile paralysis entering the cranium . . . the mental part being the weakest in Roosevelt's whole makeup his brain will give way and a mad house supplant the White House.

"His insanity is well known among medical authorities, they even smile that he has kept up so long on the emotional strain of being a great man as Head of this Nation but they all know that the time of his downfall is close at hand—let him declare WAR and lo and behold the Gates of Hell yawn for his soul."

And this is only part of a vicious editorial appearing in the November, 1934 issue of The Divine Life, a Monthly Mirror of the Soul, edited and published by Harry E. Richeimer in Chicago. Needless to say, almost five years have elapsed since Mr. Richeimer penned his devilish prophecy and nary a one of the somewhat numerous anti-New Deal critics has yet accused President Roosevelt of swinging from a chandelier.

So it could likewise be possible that Mr. Ludwig is mistaken in his assumption that Herr Hitler is a maniac. Perhaps Der Fuehrer, like Bismarck, Napoleon, Cromwell, Elizabeth, Caesar and other ruthless users of their power, will go down in history as another hero in his homeland, feared but respected throughout the world.

Nazis After Money

People in the United States, born, educated and nurtured solely in the environment of a democracy have a hard time realizing that the culture and tradition of certain foreign peoples is so far dissociated from the American mode of life, that the great masses of the population are happiest when driven, not when led. This accounts in part for the Free City of Danzig, 96% of whose inhabitants are German, clamoring to get back to the Reich and under Hitler's tyrannical wing.

Both visitors from Germany whom I have had the pleasure of contacting and friends who have studied in, visited or toured Germany, some having remained in that country for as long as two years, have been unanimous in declaring that the greater part of the material published in the United States today concerning the Reich goes out of its way to slander Germany and ridicule Hitler.

The persecution of the Jews was inspired by economic hatred and not on religious or racial grounds, but these were later used as trumps by the Nazi regime, to stir up the German people. Even today, the life of the Jew on the streets of Berlin is a lot safer and a lot more respected than that of his brother in British controlled Palestine.

And the Catholic persecution was and remains mild in comparison with recent treatment handed the Church in Russia, Loyalist Spain and Mexico. Concentration camps are certainly the lesser of two evils when compared with firing squads.

Spanish Exaggerations

A sample of reliability of American news-articles describing foreign incidents can be gleaned from the following dispatches appearing in the San Francisco Examiner concerning the Spanish Civil War.

TOLEDO (Spain), Sept. 18—One of the bloodiest massacres in modern history was perpetrated here today when a man-made earthquake of dynamite, set off by Spain's socialist-communist forces, blew up Alcazar fortress and buried most of the fortress' 1,700 insurgent men, women and children beneath the wreckage.

The dead were estimated to number 1,000 but the amazing thing was that 700 of the trapped insurgents apparently survived.

TOLEDO (Spain), Sept. 20—Ceaseless artillery fire continued on the Alcazar and other battered buildings on the hilltop where about 1,000 of the 1,700 men, women and children originally besieged there were killed two days ago when the red forces mined and exploded the fort.

TOLEDO (Spain), Sept. 28—The 71 day nightmare of shot, shell and dynamite for the 1,200 besieged Fascists and their families in Toledo's Alcazar fortress was only a memory tonight.

The insurgent captors of Toledo itself reported all but 80 stumbled from the blasted citadel alive . . .

Truth of Minor Import

Which all goes to demonstrate the effort some foreign correspondents make to insure the truth of the thrilling yarns they spin for the gullible American public. As a recent statistician revealed in a national magazine American journalists shot down more planes in the first six months of the Spanish conflict than actually existed in all the nations of western Europe put together. Such glaring errors during war time might plausibly account for at least slight mistakes while promoting war hysteria.

So, when the "human devil" who guides the destinies of the Reich reaches out and seizes Danzig and insults the God fearing and innocent Poles while the philanthropic British Lion roars in his den to avenge the great crime, don't get upset.

The British Lion will soon mew quietly again if he doesn't feel too sure of having us Yankees fight other peoples' battles for him. The great defender of the downtrodden small nations, scarcely dry from the blood of the Boer War in South Africa and the Irish persecutions, can still recall its close shave in 1914. The benevolent guider of the destinies of the grateful Hindus, Arabs, Jews, Egyptians, etc., has no more desire to try its hand with France, Russia, Poland, Greece, Turkey and Roumania against Germany, Italy, Japan, Spain, Portugal, Yugoslavia and Hungary, than most Joe Louis victims entertain for a return match. Mr. Charles Davis is right. Only America can surely keep the British Empire out of war and can only accomplish that by keeping itself out.
